

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

August 4, 2008

I send greetings to those gathered for the MAD MAX Equity Conference, hosted by the Noble Financial Group.

As Ronald Reagan said, entrepreneurs are the "explorers of the modern era," and business owners help keep our global economy moving forward by taking the lead and expanding opportunities for their fellow citizens. The MAD MAX conference helps forge new partnerships that extend prosperity and contribute to a better way of life for people throughout the world. This event provides a time to network, share ideas, and learn about new ways to improve business productivity.

I appreciate Noble Financial and all those involved with this event for enhancing business activity and changing lives. Your good work strengthens our economy and helps build a brighter future for people everywhere.

Laura and I send our best wishes for a successful conference.
